

COOKIE POLICY

This website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users. This helps us to provide you with a good experience when you browse the website and also allows us to improve the website.

A cookie is a small data file which asks permission to be placed on your computer's hard drive or other mobile or handheld device as you browse the website or other types of content and which 'remembers' that your computer or device accesses any of the website. If you accept the cookie, the file is added to your computer's hard drive or other mobile or handheld device. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you may modify your browser settings to decline cookies or to be notified of cookies being placed. The cookies do not give us access to any other personal data on your computer or device other than the personal data you choose to share with us.

WHY DO WE USE COOKIES?

Cookies may be used by us to do the following:

- (a) assist the effective operation of the website;
- (b) identify you as an account holder or user and assist with account or user security (such as by obliging you to re-set passwords if the password has lapsed);
- (c) enable us to respond to you as an individual customer and to tailor our content services to your content needs by gathering and remembering personal data about your preferences; and
- (d) enable traffic to the website to be logged to identify pages used and browsing behaviour of users for statistical purposes and to monitor which content users find useful or not.

We use the following cookies:

STRICTLY NECESSARY COOKIES. These are cookies that are required for the operation of the website. They include, for example, cookies that enable you to log into secure areas of the website. If you register with the website, your log-in information will be associated with your browsing history through these strictly necessary cookies.

FUNCTIONALITY COOKIES. These are used to recognise you when you return to the website. This enables us to personalise our content for you, greet you by name and remember your preferences (for example, your choice of language or region, or filter settings). If you register with the website, your log in information will be associated with your browsing history as set out above through these functionality cookies.

ANALYTICAL OR PERFORMANCE COOKIES. These allow us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around the website when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way the website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily. The information we collect is aggregated and therefore anonymous and only used to improve how our services work. We use these third-party performance cookies to provide statistics on how our services are used and to measure delivery and performance, such as:

- Google Analytics: [We use it to better understand how you use the website and to assist in managing the performance and design. We also use it for testing design variations to improve your experience and website performance, analyse the use of the website, and improve its usability. Google stores the information collected via the cookies]. For more information about this cookie, please see Google's Privacy Policy. You can opt-out of the collection by GA by installing the plugin from <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout> .

You can block cookies by activating the setting on your browser that allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. However, if you use your browser settings to block all cookies (including essential cookies) you may not be able to access all or parts of the website.

For more information about cookies, and how to manage them, please visit www.allaboutcookies.org